

Fisk University Jubilee Singers to Give Concert

The Jubilee Singers from Fisk University of Nashville will be making their first appearance before the Trevecca College student body on Saturday night, November 14. The group will perform in McClurkin Auditorium beginning at 8:00 P.M.

The Fisk University Jubilee Singers are traditionally known for their interpretations of the Negro Spiritual. And this is as it should be, for the original band of Singers who went forth in 1871 was the first of many groups to follow in their footsteps from Fisk University and other institutions. Like most types of folk idiom the Negro Spiritual is the expression of the soul of a people. In the Spiritual or Jubilee Song is found every expression of emotion known to humanity—sorrow, joy, despair, confidence, failure, and triumph. Strangely enough no expressions of hatred have ever been found. This may not, however, seem so strange when it is realized that these songs are primarily expressions of faith in God, His wisdom and justice.

The repertoire of the Fisk University Jubilee Singers is continually expanding to include old spirituals re-discovered and new spirituals like "One Morning Soon" which was sent back from France during World War II.

Throughout their history the Fisk University Jubilee Singers have kept in their singing the interpretation of the Spiritual drawn from the hearts of millions of Negroes who sing them as spontaneously as they breathe. The Singers interpret with profound understanding the wide range of emotional life embodied in their native songs.

The Fisk University Jubilee Singers are messengers whose song gives voice of the inmost hopes hidden in the breast of man. Born out of the need of a people to achieve education, succored by the dreams of unborn illiterate masses, raised first on the scoffs and jeers of a disinterested public and then the adulation of the mighty, and now living on the hopes and aspirations of their ancestors (and which are, in the main, the hopes and aspirations of mankind), they bring again and again to a war-torn and weary world the blessed murmurings of peace.

Through the years the personnel of the Singers has changed time and again. Present day Singers come from all sections of the country—north, south, east, and west. Their common goal is their hope for a better world, their belief that there can and must come peace, understanding, and love among the peoples of this earth.

To this end the Singers, masterly exponents not only of the Spiritual but of the songs of other peoples as well, superb interpreters of the art songs of yesterday and today, have thrilled thousands. They represent the finest traditions of the Negro people, for they have "learned that freedom isn't to be won and then forgotten;" their prayer is that there be measured out new liberties so none shall suffer for his father's color or the credo of his choice . . . than man unto his fellow-man shall be a friend forever."

The Student Council is sponsoring this activity and council members will be selling tickets. Tickets for adult non-students will be seventy-five cents, student tickets are fifty-cents, and children under twelve will pay twenty-five cents.

Six Women Students Elected To Who's Who

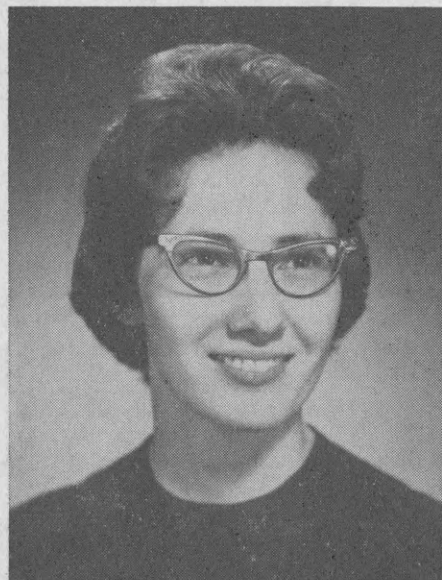

Cathy Chilton

Sara Chilton

Becky Greathouse

Suzanna McManus

Jeanne Thrasher

Lucy Williams

Trevecca Nazarene College presents six of her students to WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES. Election to this nationally recognized and distinctive organization is based upon character, scholarship, extra-curricular activities, service to the school and potential usefulness in business and society. This honor includes a biography of each student-elect in the current volume of WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES, a book which serves as a guide for personnel managers who are seeking capable college graduates.

Trevecca Nazarene College salutes these versatile students, and hopes that their future life will be as successful and useful as this honor predicts for them.

CATHY CHILTON

Cathy Chilton, of Decatur, Georgia is completing her work on an A.B. in Education-Psychology with a minor in music. She plans to attend George Peabody College for her M.A. in future preparations for the teaching profession.

Cathy, a senior, has held several offices while at T.N.C., including vice-president of the Music Club ('63-'64), president of the Clio Society ('63-'64), the SEA and the Georgia Club. She was secretary of her Junior Class, and is Darda Editor for '64-'65.

She feels Trevecca has helped her most in the area of Christian work. When informed of being elected to Who's Who, Cathy said, "I feel like laughing and crying at the same time. I'll probably faint!" Her famous last words for future seniors are "Study hard but have fun."

SARA CASDORPH CHILTON

Mrs. Chilton, of Charleston, West Virginia, has as her major English and her minor Education. She was the Junior Class representative on the Student Council '63-'64, reporter for the CWA, treasurer for the SEA, and president of the West Virginia Club. Sara feels T.N.C. has assisted her academically and spiritually. She is married to Trevecca's Controller, Mr. John F. Chilton, Jr.

Her last word for oncoming seniors are, "Set academic and spiritual goals early and strive for excellence in them." Her reactions to being elected to Who's Who, "Surprised, honored, and pleased."

BECKY GREATHOUSE

Another electee is Becky Greathouse, daughter of Trevecca's President, Dr. William M. Greathouse. Becky is completing work on her A.B. in English and Education. She plans to work on her M.A. in Education at Peabody College. During her career at Trevecca, she has been secretary of her Freshman Class, Senior Class representative on the Student Council, treasurer of the Student Council '64-'65, member of the A Cappella Choir, and the Delta Society. In commenting of her life at Trevecca Becky stated, "I feel that the religious emphasis of Trevecca has helped me to mature spiritually and to become more firmly settled in my Christian faith."

When told of her election to Who's Who, Becky exclaimed, "I am very happy and consider this the highest honor which has come to me at Trevecca."

SUZANNA McMANUS

A Nashvillian, Miss McManus, is majoring in Mathematics and minoring in music. She plans to become a programmer on IBM computers and hopes to attend Vanderbilt University for further studies. While at Trevecca, she has been a member of the Music Club, Speech Club, Honor Society, treasurer of her Junior Class and president in her Sophomore year of the Math Club. She was also a member of the Darda Staff in '63-'64 and '64-'65. Suzanna is presently serving as President of the Senior Class.

Due to her excellent scholastic average, Suzanna was a Junior Marshall, and was a member of the A Cappella Choir, and a member of the Trev-Tone Trio.

Suzanna feels the area in which Trevecca has helped her most is in providing "the constant opportunity for Christian fellowship with those of like faith which has aided my spiritual well-being." Her reaction in being elected to Who's Who? "It's a great honor and I only hope that I can uphold the honor bestowed on me. I am very thrilled."

JEANNE THRASHER

The Student Council president for this year, Miss Jeanne Thrasher, comes from New Albany, Indiana. She is a Biology major and an English minor. After getting her masters degree from Peabody College, she will be a medical librarian. Miss Thrasher, who has been very active, has been a member of the A Cappella Choir, Science Club (treasurer), Music Club, Student Council Secretary, and student director of last year's junior class play. She feels that she has learned to make major adjustments both spiritually and scholastically while at Trevecca.

"Certainly it is a distinct honor—one which thrills me, but would also serve to some degree, as a reward for my college work" was her reaction to the good news.

LUCY WILLIAMS

Miss Lucy Williams, a senior from St. Louis, Missouri, says, "Life at Trevecca has helped me to establish and maintain a steadfast experience with Christ and to have a complete understanding of the phrase, 'Living By Faith'." Miss Williams, who is planning to be a music teacher, is majoring in music education-psychology. She will be working at Peabody College for her Masters in music. She has held several offices during her four years at Trevecca, including the offices of vice-president for one year and president for two years of the Music Club. She was elected to be the secretary of the 1964-1965 Student Council. She is also a member of the SEA and a member of the A Cappella Choir in '63-'64.

Miss Williams asked that all the future seniors of Trevecca would, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths." Upon receiving the news, she stated, "I am thrilled and honored beyond all degree of measurement."

SIX SEMI-FINALISTS

MARK BARNES, Education-psychology major is from Camden, Tennessee. He has been a member of the SEA and the Music Club. He is planning to be a minister and a teacher.

A math major and a biology minor, WAYNE DOLLAR is planning to enter the field of business. Among the activities he has been in are the Science Club, Math Club (President '63-'64), A Cappella Choir, Music Club, Alabama Club, and TAA. He was also Vice-president of his freshman class.

RICHARD HUMSTON, a product of Auburndale, Florida, has a religion major and a minor in the field of English. He has been pastoring a local church, holding down another job, and taking a full load in school. This year he is president of the Ministerial Association. He is also in the CWA. He received a class scholarship and is a member of the Honor Society. Last year, he was a Junior Marshall.

WINONA HUMSTON, from Auburndale, Florida, is majoring in Education-psychology and minoring in English. She plans to teach while her husband attends seminary. She was a member of the SEA, CWA,

Bridging the Gap

Bridging the gap means linking the college with the community. Certainly any college should feel a sense of responsibility in making its community a better place in which to live. Trevecca, as a Christian college, should feel even more her responsibility in creating a wholesome community atmosphere.

For many years the Christian Worker's Association has provided a vital link with the community through various methods of service and training.

This year Trevecca is taking steps to broaden her program of community service. Recently approved was the Circle-K Club, a men's service organization affiliated with Kiwanis International. It is hoped that this organization will establish "good will" between T. N. C. and the businessmen of Nashville. Also being planned is a "float" which will represent Trevecca College in the Nashville Christmas Parade. Dr. Franklyn Wise has taken a personal step in linking our college with the community by entering into politics as a candidate for the state legislature.

By "bridging the gap" Trevecca College can better serve the Nashville area and can be of even greater benefit to our state and our country.

We as students can each help personally by exercising interest in civic and political affairs, offering our services to those in need, and by taking advantage of our many opportunities to witness.

Academic Purpose

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a condensation of a chapel address presented by Prof. Harry Russell. It is being printed at the request of Dr. Greathouse.)

Professor David McClellan at Harvard University once warned that colleges and universities may be at fault for this lack of academic purpose in a student's career because we are paying too much attention to one kind of excellence. He calls it academic excellence: skill in taking examinations, or following instructions, or finding solutions to "problems" set by others. We are paying too little attention to other important qualities such as the creative risk-taking spirit of a man, intelligence, curiosity—knowing a thing because it should be known—doing a thing because you see that it needs to be done—seeing a problem in the world and seeking its solution, not just because someone forced you to do it or because you are a self-driven worker, but because you have a purpose to your life. You are different, you are sincerely interested in your fellow man. After all, "You are your brother's keeper." We need to develop a sensitivity to other human beings, to their problems and successes. But to do this we need academically trained graduates with a rich and imaginative life.

Let me put risk-taking into an analogy. Few of you would be willing to borrow money to build a house hoping that when the house is finished you would be able to sell it, pay off the loan, and have money left over. Obviously the man with more talent would be taking less risk. We at Trevecca are not trying to eliminate your risk, but we want to reduce your per cent of risk so that an academic achievement on your part will not be mere foolhardy fanaticism.

Students frequently remind me of seekers coming to an altar in a revival night after night. They probably find temporary comfort in realizing that they come so close to the master. But they never come to the place of actual commitment. Just so, some persons seek an education without a willingness for commitment. The act of seeking seems to be an end in itself. The student finds refuge from the world, his family, or other problems, but never in the risk of commitment to life's academic purpose. He is unwilling to take the risk involved in productive living—in assumed Christian responsibility in the secular world.

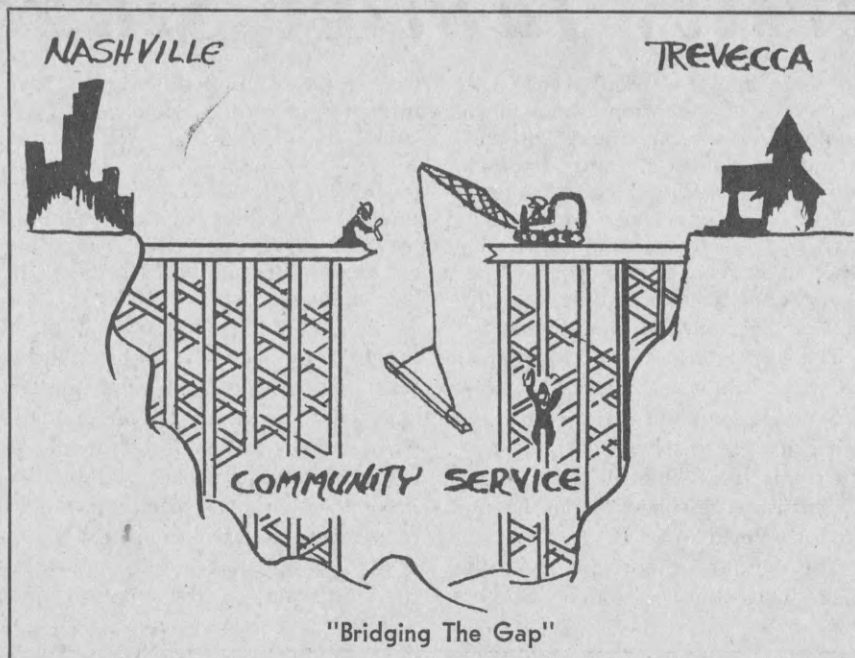

We need risk-takers in the world. If the world is to be changed, it will be changed by Christians. Scientists and politicians are unable to bring about any great moral revolution or serious change in the inherent character of man. But we must admit that in the past, Christians could have done more to shape world affairs. It's ironic that within our grasp is the only force that can change man, yet too few of us are willing to apply that force where it can do its good. We are afraid to risk public service, a political idea, an innovation in the social world. We have a responsibility to attack wrong, be it in the church, society or politics. The holiness churches could place well-trained men in local positions and begin to rebuild the political and moral fiber of the country.

We are told that the enrollment of college students will more than double by 1980. Eighty per cent of these will be in publicly supported institutions because the private schools will have room for no more than 20% of them. The private college must continue to produce a high share of the world's leaders, leaders not of a local group of people who pretty much agree with us, but leaders of the masses.

The third basic requirement of the student is that he must learn to replace material with human values. We must learn to reduce our emphasis on personal pride, status, security, position, etc., and to place human values on things ranging from present decisions in a classroom to the decisions of parenthood, finance, politics, social welfare, world affairs, and the church.

Like Plato's allegory of the cave, your job is not done when you turn your back on the patterns and images made by the flicker of an unseen fire on the cave's wall before you. Nor is it complete when you finally emerge from the cave of ignorance and disillusionment into the full brilliance of the sun's illumination. The dawn of knowledge in your own mind is indeed a miracle, but it has value only when you return to the cave from whence you came where others are still sitting chained to ignorance and disillusionment, looking at the shadowy images on the wall before them, thinking they are reality. Within your hands are the tools that will lead the world from darkness. You alone must use them.

—Prof. Harry Russell

...POLITICS...

Election Day arrived clear and warm. The political speeches had waxed warmer than the weather. The voters went to the polls and made their decision. How does a candidate feel during and after the election?

During the hours when the polls are open, a candidate tries very hard not to let his anxiety about the outcome grip him too tightly. He alternates between periods of hopefulness—which may be wishful thinking—and troughs of pessimism. How will he explain his loss? What should the defeated candidate say?

When the results are in and the ballots are all counted and the candidate sees that he is not elected, he naturally begins to analyze his campaign. What did he omit doing that he should have done? What place should he have visited that he did not? What should have been said that might have turned the tide? Reflections on the past can only improve his techniques for the future, if he wishes to try again.

However, the candidate who runs and is not elected has not really lost. Into his life have come many wonderful experiences. He has met many nice people. He has been able to stand and be counted. He has a sense of accomplishment for he did not sit around and bemoan the ineffectiveness of the opposition. He got involved; he tried to do something about it. The very effort of trying has left his community better. He himself has become a better person. I was not elected, it is true, but I did not lose. I won some wonderful memories of excitement, activity, and friends that I would not have had otherwise.

Throughout the campaign, I have been gratified by the willingness of many people to help. Especially do I owe to the students, the Young Republican Club, and its officers, a lasting debt of gratitude. Without the help of everyone who spoke a word on my behalf, who passed out one card, carried a cartop sign, or put a poster on their car, thank you so much. If you had not done what you did, I would not have done as well as I did.

While I cannot repay each friend who worked for me, I do trust that it has been a lesson of practical political science. You see now how elections are won. Perhaps through it all, you will be a better citizen and will take an active part in all future elections. Only in this way can our nation be strong and be freed from the inevitable corruptions which creep in whenever one party is in power too long, be it Republican or Democrat. May you not take your government so indifferently again as long as you live!

—Dr. F. F. Wise

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I can't say that I haven't been bitten by the "sleep bug" at all this year during chapel, but neither can I trace the cause to boredom in any fashion. Someone on my row in chapel was quietly snoozing during the second day of the special services with Dr. Lawlor. When someone asked me if he should be awakened, I said not to bother him; because someone too tired to stay awake for Dr. Lawlor must have reason to be tired.

Perhaps I have resolved to exaggeration to put across a point, but I'm not exaggerating when I say how much I have been impressed with the chapel programs this year. Their variation from evangelistic to political, not to mention their high caliber, have kept me from falling into the usual "sit and stare" rut.

The favorable comments I have heard from many students about the chapel services lead me to believe that I am not alone in my opinion. May I take this opportunity to express our appreciation for well-planned, well-executed chapel programs this year.

—Kathy Newton

Dear Editor,

Football games are a vital part of the students' extracurricular activities at Trevecca. This takes in the students who watch and cheer as well as the ones who participate. It is a time when one can take off from the busy schedule of studying and going to classes. It is an event that is looked forward to by many of the students. But there are a lot of students who like to watch football games who aren't seen at these games. Why is this?

It is said by some that it is the attitudes of the players that contribute to this lack of interest. One student who saw his first football game at Trevecca came away with memories of two players being thrown out of the game for fighting, arguments with the referees by both teams on every other play, numerous penalties, and a general letdown of attitudes by both teams. Is this the kind of game we as mature christian college men should give the spectators? There would probably be many more out to see these games if we would remember that we are being watched. Every move that is made, whether premeditated or accidental, is watched by the spectators on the field as well as the Spectator above. Shouldn't we re-examine our attitudes?

BOOK REVIEW

Black Like Me

What is it like to be a Negro in the deep south today? John Howard Griffin, a white novelist, started out by darkening his skin, with medications from a noted dermatologist, to find out the dark side of American life. Everywhere he went he passed as a Negro. He heard these words over and over again, "Hey, nigger, you can't go in there; Hey, nigger, you can't drink here; We don't serve niggers".

He trudged southern streets looking for a place to eat and rest. He felt the "hate stare" burn through him time and time again. He could find no job other than menial labor. He had crossed the line of a first class citizen to a tenth class citizen. Here is one of the deepest and most penetrating documents on the racial question. He has conveyed the sight, sound, feel, and sweat of the Negro problem.

DEBATE TEAM SELECTED

Stephen Price, Judy Parchman, Karen Dean, and Gene Dunaway comprise Trevecca's first intercollegiate Debate Team.

Affiliating with the Speech Club this year as an active part is the debate society, under the able leadership of Professor Harry Russell.

The four students pictured above have been selected as the debate team to represent Trevecca Nazarene College. Miss Judy Parchman and Mr. Stephen Price represent the affirmative, while Miss Karen Dean and Mr. Gene Dunaway will carry the negative view.

The first college to debate will be David Lipscomb, and will take place there, November 12th, at three o'clock in the evening.

Then on November 19th, at four o'clock, Vanderbilt University will debate against the Trevecca squad here at Trevecca. All those who desire to see the team in action are welcome to attend.

It has been Professor Russell's desire since arriving here this fall to see Trevecca with an active squad of debaters which can participate in intercollegiate debates locally, and even nationally. Professor Russell is presently making application to establish a chapter of a National Forensic Honorary Society, the Delta Sigma Rho-tau Kappa Alpha. Other schools which presently have active chapters of this society are Vanderbilt University, University of Tennessee, Lincoln Memorial, Memphis State, and Duke University, just to mention a few. The debate team will go ahead and travel independently until accepted into the society.

The debaters are looking forward to the possibility of being able to attend, next February, an all Tennessee Forensic tournament, sponsored by the Tennessee Forensic Association, to be held at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee. This would be one of the high points of the year for the squad.

Hopes are high for the debate team as they prepare for action. We are starting out "great guns" so to speak, but there is the feeling that we have the ammunition to fill those big guns. The two teams being debated against are not beginning teams, as in Trevecca. Neither are they small schools. Nevertheless we feel that the debaters here are as capable of defending a given proposition as those of any other school.

Florida Club and the Clio Society. She was the Sophomore Class representative to the Student Council.

Coming from Arcadia, Florida, HOWARD MELTON, is no stranger to the students of the college, for he has served as the manager of the cafeteria from 1961-1964. He is married to Mrs. Velma Melton, also from Arcadia. With a major in Religion and a minor in Christian Education, Mr. Melton has served as a sponsor of the Art Club, and has been a member of the TAA and the Ministerial Association.

Mrs. JOAN ROSS, from Morgantown, West Virginia, is married to Mr. Donald E. Ross. She majored in Education-psychology and minored in English. She is an active student and has been a member of the SEA, the Honor Society, a Trevecca Echoes associate editor, Sophomore Class Secretary, and secretary of the West Virginia Club.

Stuco Report

by Lucy Williams

Greetings from your Student Council. We have been working for YOU during the past weeks, and are feeling a bit proud of our accomplishments. Trevecca may look forward to one of the most entertaining evenings she has ever witnessed with the coming of the Fisk Jubilee Singers on Saturday, November 14, at 8:00 p.m. This is the BIG event of the Fall Quarter. A nominal fee will be charged.

Trevecca will enter a float in the Annual Christmas Parade in downtown Nashville on December 6. If your help is solicited regarding the construction of this float, please cooperate!

You will be pleased to know that two student representatives have been chosen to attend meetings of the Academic Council of the college. They are Becky Greathouse and Dick Bailey. The purpose of the Council is to deal with any matters concerning academic life at Trevecca. Working toward QUALITY in the area of academics, as well as in the other areas of college life, is our goal. Let it be your achievement.

U.S. CONGRESSMAN VISITS CAMPUS

On October 23, 1964, U.S. Congressman Richard Fulton (Dem.-Tenn.) visited the Trevecca campus. During his speech presented in chapel, he said, "It is but by the grace of God that we were not born in India where we would die of starvation in the street gutters. It is but by the grace of God that we were not born in Africa where life is tormented by disease and the average person lives to the age of 30. It is but by the grace of God that we are permitted to enjoy being a citizen of the United States of America, a country that has only 6% of the total world's population but 45% of the total wealth of the world."

Mr. Fulton continued by saying, "We also have a responsibility to all the world to show that we are concerned about the future. We have a responsibility to vote. We have a responsibility to express our views and convictions, regardless of the party we belong to. We have a responsibility to study the issues; we should not obtain all our information from one paper or magazine but from different sources so we will see all sides of the issue."

He concluded by stating that tremendous changes are taking place. These will be very difficult but they must come. "We cannot resist change." He told the student body that we should not accept change without first giving it thought, without looking it over and seeing if it is needed. He said that the government will be exactly what we want it to be. "It is as you will it," Congressman Fulton said.

ACTIVITY ON THE CAMPUS

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The Trevecca Ministerial Association met and elected officers for the present school year. Also at this meeting some plans for activities during this quarter were made.

The officers elected for this year are: President, Richard Humston; Vice-President, Ron Pelton; Secretary, Jim Bearden; Treasurer, Marshall Singletary; and Reporter, Jim Tabers. Professor Drell Allen has been chosen sponsor for the year.

Included in the plans for this quarter is a return trip to the Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Missouri, which proved very successful last year. The trip will be made the second week of November. Those attending will leave Tuesday night the 10th and return Thursday night the 12th. During the visit there students will be visiting the Seminary. The Publishing House, and World Headquarters.

FRESHMAN CLASS

The freshman class officers are making a special request to freshman class members. This plea for help and cooperation was made by Mark Greathouse at the first freshman class meeting. Mark wants and urges the freshman to help supply ideas, themes, and workers for the Christmas Party. Since Christmas is just a month and a half away, the officers have already appointed committees to work on the program. However, the committees need all the help and support they can get from class members in order to make the party a success. If the freshman class wants to be the best class ever enrolled at T.N.C., they will have to work hard. Therefore, every freshman get busy and work.

FLOAT IN CHRISTMAS PARADE

Trevecca College will be represented by a float in the Nashville Annual Christmas Parade on Sunday afternoon, December 6.

The float will be of a religious nature relating to the Christmas season. The primary purpose of the float is to help the community become more aware of the real meaning of Christmas, but it will also make the community more aware of T.N.C.

This project is a joint sponsorship by the Student Council and the college. Those wishing to help should speak to Jim Knight.

C.W.A.

Recently we have noted definite results from our Christian Workers' Association activities.

Ken Walker, president, received six letters last week from ladies in the city jail who are sincerely interested in becoming Christians. They want each of us to pray for them.

About seven men from the prison divisions have been saved within the past three weeks. They also need our prayers that they might understand more about Christian faith. Their faith needs to be strengthened and they need to grow in grace.

A boy who was in Juvenile Court and is presently in General Hospital, through our Christian Workers' Association, heard the story of salvation and accepted Christ as his personal Saviour. Now he goes up and down the corridors of General Hospital telling others of Christ. This could be an unending chain for the Eternal Heavenly Kingdom.

These and others who have been helped through C.W.A. are our responsibility—souls for whom Christ died. We have a part in their salvation. How will our individual decisions affect their destiny?

T. M. F.

Confession, consecration, commitment, commission—these four are a travelogue of "C's" perhaps geographically speaking the way to an adventure with T.M.F. and its special guests. A spiritual highlight at T.N.C. will have its concentration on South America as our guests—Rev. Ronald Denton, Brazil; William Sedat, Guatemala; and Samuel Taylor, British Guiana—visit with us during our third annual Missionary Convention. If you need initiative to pray, remember the convention and its potential, not only at Trevecca, but around the world.

Perhaps you are unable to go to any areas of service but you can earnestly pray for those who do minister and for those to whom they go.

"And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." Galatians 6:9.

OUTSTANDING PLAYERS

Vernon Henderson, Alpha halfback, and Greg Rickey, Beta quarterback have been selected outstanding players for the month of October.

The outstanding players for this issue of TREV-ECHOES are Vernon Henderson and Greg Rickey. These two have been responsible for their teams' success this year.

When the season started, the Betas, last year's champions, weren't quite sure who their quarterback would be. Several games were played before they came up with the right one. After playing this position in one game it was quite evident that Greg Rickey would be the one to fill the bill. The Betas are now challenging for the championship and Greg is primarily responsible.

Greg is co-captain of the Betas along with Jim Knight. He has been outstanding at leading his team on its recent surge. He is a triple-threat man and can beat a team several ways. He can run, as evidenced by some of his long runs this year. His main weapon is his strong arm. Most of the Beta touchdowns have come by way of his arm. He is especially adept at the roll-out, and is also a good blocker, providing protection for the fine Beta running backs.

The Betas are in the thick of the run for the championship. Greg's teammates give him the credit for this. They believe he is a top candidate for Back-of-the-Year.

The Alphas have been in first place all year and the main reason is Henderson. The halfback is leading the league in scoring and in two games scored three touchdowns. Considered one of the shiftiest runners in the league, he is especially adept at taking a kick-off and running it all the way back. This is the kind of play that can break the morale of the opposing team.

Vernon also has leadership ability, evidenced by the fact that his teammates elected him co-captain this year. He attributes a lot of his success this year to the blocking of his teammates. Blocking is one thing a good back has to have. Vernon has it and he uses it.

FOOTBALL HIGHLIGHTS

ALPHA-DELTA

The slumping Alphas' had a hard time with the game Deltas but finally came out with a 16-6 win. It was the Alphas sixth win of the season. Without the services of Reed Wheaton and because of a general letdown the Alphas have found it rough going lately. The Alphas started a drive late in the first quarter that featured the running of Bob Snodgrass and Vern Henderson. Henderson ran 20 yards for the T.D. and Snodgrass ran the extra points over. Taking the kick-off the Deltas started a drive of their own. With the ball on the midfield stripe, Jim Hendershot went back and fired a 40 yard pass to Jan Forman for the T.D. This is the way the game went until the fourth quarter when the fired-up Alphas scored on a run by Vern Henderson. He also scored the E.P.

BETA-DELTA

The oncoming Betas rolled over the stubborn Delta nine by a score of 38-20. The Betas were led by Greg Rickey, Jim Knight and Roy Galloway, but much credit goes to all the members of the Beta team for the outstanding play that in recent games has brought them into contention for the championship. Jim Knight and Roy Galloway both scored twice for the victors with Larry Knight and Greg Rickey also adding TDs. The Deltas were handicapped by the absence of speedsters Jan Forman, Barney Baggott, and Dave Stucki.

BETA-ALPHA

In the best played defensive game this year, the rampaging Betas defeated the Alphas 6-0, in one of the lowest scoring games in TAA history. The lone TD came in the second quarter when Co-captain Jim Knight (end) and Greg Rickey (quarter-back) combined on a 30-yard pass play. The PAT failed, but that was all the Betas needed. The Alpha nine threatened in the 3rd quarter when league-leading scorer Vern Henderson hit Gary Powell with a pass. Roy Galloway stopped Powell on the Beta 2-yard line, but the powerful Beta defense drove them back and held four downs. Outstanding defensive play was turned in by Jim Tabers, Jim Knight, Bob Thompson and Walter Motley. It was the first time the Alphas had been shut-out since the opening game of the 1963 season when the Betas did it 26-0.

ALPHA-DELTA

The powerful Alpha team rolled to their seventh victory against only two defeats as they defeated the Deltas 20-12. The Alpha offense was led again by league-leading scorer Vern Henderson who scored all three of the Victors' TD's. In the first quarter he scored on a 35 yard run. In the second quarter he made a leaping interception of a Wayne Dollar pass and traveled the 10 short yards to the end zone unmolested. He returned the opening kick-off of the second half for a T.D. The Deltas fought all the way with Forman and Baggott scoring on passes from Dollar and Hendershot respectively.

With national election campaigns now over, the winners eating $100 a plate dinners free, the losers just "chewing the fat", all eyes are turning to a much more exciting campaign—football campaign, that is. While less than three weeks of football remain to be played, the end promises to be more exciting and unpredictable than the beginning. A person viewing things from the front would say that the Alphas had it all in the bag; they won their first five. Since then, the Betas have come on strong and look to be hard to stop. The Deltas look weak sitting back in last place, but should never be underestimated or overlooked in their bid to be the spoilers. Quarterbacking the three clubs as they come down to the end are David Bays—Alpha, Greg Rickey—Beta, Wayne Dollar and Jim Hendershot—Deltas.

What an unusual class has come to Trevecca this year! I have heard some freshmen say that they would like to take on the upperclassmen in a football contest this year. I have also heard some upperclassmen laughing and saying they would be glad to meet the challenge. This year, instead of the traditional All-Star-Alumni game, the frosh will have a chance to prove their football prowess as they meet a well-rounded, experienced upperclassman team. The big game is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 21 at 10 a.m. I am predicting a Big Win for the upperclassmen!!

A big evening has been planned for opening night of basketball season Friday, December 4. The Deltas will be pitted against last year's undefeated championship Betas. "Play for Keeps," a film by Gospel Films, Inc. starring such Christian athletes as Bill Wade, Raymond Berry, Bobby Richardson and Alvin Dark, will be shown immediately following the game in Wise Chapel at First Church. Keep this date in mind, you won't want to miss it!

Student referees are hard to get! As T. A. A. President, it is my responsibility to supply referees for our ball games. If you are asked to support your T. A. A. by refereeing, carrying equipment or paying your dues, don't shirk your responsibility. In accordance with this, as a sideline spectator, please realize that you could or should be the one out there taking the ribbing! Thank you.

BETA-DELTA

The Betas swept to their fifth victory of the season with a 34-16 win over the Deltas. The Betas scored early in the game on a pass from Greg Rickey to Jim Knight. The Betas continued their scoring on the next series of plays on a run up the middle by Roy Galloway. The Deltas took the kick-off and several plays later Jim Hendershot ran off tackle for the T.D. Barney Baggott scored the extra points. Roy Galloway scored another touchdown to make the score 18-8 at the half. The fired-up Deltas came back to score on a pass from Hendershot to Jan Forman. Forman also scored the extra points. Greg Rickey and Jim Knight teamed up for their second touchdown of the day to make the score 26-16 as Galloway scored the extra points. Hollis Kelly closed out the scoring as he took a kick-off and ran it back.

ALPHA-BETA

The Betas played their best game of the season as they beat the first place Alphas 42-6. Jim Knight scored a T.D. on the first play of the game on a pass from Greg Rickey. Knight also scored another T.D. on a pass from Rickey. Rickey scored two touchdowns on a run up the middle and on an option. The Alphas finally scored on a pass from David Bays to Vern Henderson. But the Betas were still not through as Henry Horton got in the clear in the end zone and Rickey hit him with a perfect pass. The Betas closed out the scoring as Claude Nicholas trapped Henderson in the end zone for a safety. This made the final score 42-6.
